

MEDI RUN – INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

Funding and promoting participation from developing countries

Background

As an international organization – the ILF promotes participation in projects and conferences from Developing Countries. To that end, we would like to develop a fund for the purpose of supporting delegates from developing countries to travel to and participate in ILF conferences. The intent is to cover the majority of the costs associated with travelling to and attending an ILF conference and have the recipient or their sponsoring organization cover the balance.

What we will fund

- Full registration fee (main registration early bird fee, excludes any pre or post conference optional sessions)
- Applicable conference dinner fee
- A bursary which would include a contribution towards air travel. Applicants should provide an estimate of economy flight costs.
- 75% of accommodation costs for 4 or 5 nights

Not funded (the responsibility of the recipient and/or their sponsoring organization)

- Incidental costs
- transfers

Eligibility

- Funding available to those from a country listed by the World Bank as a Developing Country.
- Health care professional currently working with people with lymphoedema (doctor, nurse, therapist)
- Recipient expected to present either an abstract or share information on the current state of lymphoedema care in their country, what is being done to change the current status and what they would like to achieve. This will help to stimulate international collaboration and give a sense of ILF spirit.

ILF reserves the right to limit the recipients to one per developing country, should multiple applications be received.
